

MIDDLE MANAGERS'

NETWORK

Why the Network?

- Many middle managers are unprepared for their unique roles.
- Recent research compares contemporary middle managers to general managers of the past
- The global marketplace requires strong skills in execution and change management to accomplish work goals.
- Much of today's work is accomplished through teams and new skills such as Influencing, networking, emotional intelligence, and coaching are critical to success.
- A higher level skill set is required for today's leaders in order for them to be effective in their roles.

Why the Network?

- Many middle professionals have a wealth of experience at handling day to day management issues
- Most are now ready for a bigger challenge
- Extra skills need to be acquired to prepare them for the next level of leadership

Organizational Benefits

- Equipped motivated and confident to transition to the next level or lead more effectively
- Able to avoid common pitfalls at the more senior level through greater understanding of organizational culture, performance management, making decisions and talent Management
- Equipped to make a significant contribution to moving the organization in desired directions and steer teams through complex situations
- Thinking and behave like leaders

Personal Benefits

- Gain new insights into decision making, visioning, performance management and learn how to be flexible in both leadership and management
- Be able to understand people and create a motivating environment for their staff
- Understand their own and others' preferred team roles
- Be able to influence upwards in the organization with confidence
- Be able to plan and lead change

Personal Benefits

- Network with other managers
- Share Information
- Benchmark
- Current on News

Who can be a Partner

This Network is designed for

- Those who need to keep abreast of new thinking in management and leadership
- Those who have some experience at manager / professional level and are ready to take on a wider role
- Those who want to make the transition from competent professional to inspirational leader
- Those who need a deeper understanding of what drives individual behaviour and group dynamics
- Those who need to hone their influencing skills to get results that matter
- Those about to embark on leading a change programme within their organization
- Those who need to network

SIGN UP
TODAY

THANK YOU

THANK YOU

MAKE YOUR MARK

CONSULTANTS

YOUR PURPOSE, OUR PASSION

1 Robertson Avenue , Kingston 6, Jamaica, W.I.

876 978 6001-2;

Fax - 976 978 4418

info@makeyourmarkconsultants.com

makeyourmark@cwjamaica.com

www.makeyourmarkconsultants.com

